Albert Tiffany, G. O. P. Leader, Killed Tuesday

FUNERAL SERVICES WILL BE HELD FRIDAY AT METHODIST CHURCH

Was Antioch Pioneer; Served in a Number of Public Offices

INQUEST GIVES VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Albert N. Tiffany, pioneer Antioch resident and leader in county Republican circles, was killed Tuesday night at the Brookside crossing of the North Shore line in Waukegan, when he failed to see a southbound train. The accident occurred shortly after ten o'clock when Tiffany was returning to the home of his son, Charles, after a trip to Springfield.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Methodist Church. The Rev. Philip T. Bohi and the Rev. S. E. Pollock will officiate. Interment will be at Hillside Cemetery.

Rain Blurred Vision
The accident is attributed to poor visibility on that night because of the rain. A verdict of accidental death was reached by the coroner's jury following the inquest Wednesday afternoon, which absolved the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad of any blame.

William Rydell, motorman of the train which struck Mr. Tiffany, describing the accident, stated that he saw a man running with his head down, suitcase in hand toward the crossing. The man was about four feet from the tracks when he was seen, according to Rydell. Tiffany had a characteristic way of walking with his head lowered.

Antioch residents who served on the jury were: Joseph C. James, Charles Sibley, Herman Bock, Frank R. King, D. B. Sabin, and J. E. Sibley. The inquest was held at White and Tobin undertaking establishment.

Filled Many Offices
Mr. Tiffany was one of the outstanding Republicans in this section. He had filled a number of public offices during his life, having retired only recently from the state board of pardons and paroles to which he was appointed by former Governor Louis L. Emmerson. He began his career as Antioch Township supervisor, in 1897 serving for seven years, when he was elected to the state senate. Previous to his appointment to the board of pardons, he held the office of collector of internal revenue in this district by appointment of former presidents Harding and Coolidge. He resigned from this office, after Governor Emmerson's appointment.

Was 72 Years Old
He has also served on the Antioch Township High School board and as a member of the exemption board during the World War. He was 72 years old at the time of his death.

He was a member of Sequoit Masonic lodge. The Tiffany farm, west of town, which was farmed by Mr. Tiffany for a number of years, is now farmed by a son, Albert. Mrs. Ben Burke, a daughter, and her family also make their home there. Mrs. Tiffany died several years ago.

The three sons and five daughters who survive Mr. Tiffany are: Charles, Homer, Susan, Mary, and Deedeo of Waukegan, Albert, Mrs. Hazel Sibley and Mrs. Ben Burke of Antioch.

REPORTS OF DAIRY FARMERS' MEETING ARE CONTRADICTORY

"Strike Now" Sentiment Is Denied; Des Moines Delegates Named

When 1200 dairy farmers from Cook, Lake, McHenry and Kane Counties and from Southern Wisconsin gathered at Woodstock last Sunday afternoon, a quiet and orderly meeting ensued, the Woodstock Sentinel stated the following day, notwithstanding reports to the contrary of metropolitan papers.

The meeting, called to discuss plans for a national organization of milk producers and the program of the Wisconsin co-operative milk pool was addressed by Walter M. Singler, president of the Wisconsin co-operative milk pool.

Singler has called a tentative strike among the 30,000 members of his organization to begin May 13 if the producers' demands for a higher rate from the distributors are not met at that time. The Illinois farmers agreed at the meeting to strike in unison with the Wisconsin dairy men if the distributors' response is not favorable.

Three delegates, E. L. Bost of Harvard, and Charles Palmer and Nicholas Schaeffer of Woodstock, were named to attend the meeting of farmers from thirty-four states which will be held at Des Moines Wednesday and Thursday to draw up plans for a national organization of farmers.

There was no indication that the meeting was called to stage a demonstration demanding an immediate milk strike as the city papers stated, according to the Woodstock paper.

H. A. Pfister, president of the Pure Milk Association, was heckled by the gathering when he tried to speak, and was questioned. It is reported that he asked members of the association to stand, and then requested the number who were dissatisfied with the administration to stand, and the same number stood.

Reports that A. M. Krahl, educational director for Pure Milk, was rushed from the building by friends just as fists began to fly, preventing a near riot, were also denied by the Woodstock paper.

"That one or two members of the crowd yelled, 'Let's strike today—right now' is no proof of the sentiment of those present," the paper states. "In fact there was no indication that the farmers of this community want to join in a strike movement."

Channel Lake Gets Two Million Wall-Eyed Pike; Sorenson Plants Fish

One million wall-eyed pike from the State Hatchery at Spring Grove, were planted in Channel Lake today by Elmer Sorenson, local Democratic leader and sportsman. Another shipment of a million will be received Saturday to be planted.

Channel Lake was stocked with the same number of fish last year. Supplies of black bass, blue gills, croppies, and perch will be placed in the lake next fall, Mr. Sorenson states. About thirty-five million fish will be hatched at Spring Grove this spring.

Junior Play Is Presented to Crowd at Both Performances by Double Cast

The innovation of duplicate casts for the annual Junior Class play production at Antioch High School, brought audiences which filled the auditorium both Friday and Saturday nights.

The play, "Girl Shy," a three act comedy, was staged with a single setting, the living room of two college boys' apartment, and included a cast of twelve characters. M. K. (Mrs. George E. Phillips) who suggested the double cast, and willingly assumed the increased burden of directing the two groups, gave those who witnessed the drama, a decidedly fine amateur performance on both nights.

The part of the girl shy hero was played by Clayton Bartlett on the first night and by Paul Zeien on the second, and though the acting of young Bartlett in some instances fell short of Zeien's characterization, he made up for it in other instances. Russell Hunter and Jack Panowski played the part of the hero's self-confident young friend and divided honors with the heroes on both nights. Both Hunter and Panowski were apparently at ease in their portrayals. Heroines Were Pleased
The heroine was played by Rita

Radio Route Markers For Fair Highway Go up This Week on 21

Aerial highway markers which mark Route 21, passing through Antioch, as one of the fourteen World's Fair highways leading to the Century of Progress, have been placed along Main street and on the highway outside town this week, in preparation for the traffic which is expected to head toward Chicago by the end of this month.

Choice of highway No. 21 as one of the World's Fair highways, was announced last September, when it was named the Radio route after one of the most popular features of the exposition.

The markers are 18 inch metal signs, bearing an emblem of an antenna tower and flash, and fastened to metal standards. They have been located at an average of every one tenth mile.

VILLAGE COMMITTEES APPOINTED; BEER LICENSING DISCUSSED

Meeting Recessed; Decision on Salary Reduction Delayed

At what was one of the most important board meetings of the year, village trustees and President Bartlett gathered in the village hall Tuesday night and approved the recommendations made for standing committees. The licensing of beer dispensaries, salary reductions for the village marshal and police officer, and reduction of the village vehicle tax were discussed but not acted on.

An audience of townsmen which board members agreed was the largest to attend a meeting in the last four years, was present to hear these matters discussed. Fixing of the beer license fee, the vehicle tax and salaries of the police officials was deferred after discussion, to a recessed meeting to be called within a week by the president. A motion was made that Trustee Nason Sibley, newly appointed head of the licensing committee, draw up an ordinance pertaining to the licensing of beer dispensaries within the village, to be presented at the next meeting for discussion and possible action.

President Bartlett brought up the question of reducing the salaries of Police Officer Brogan and Village Marshal Simonson, stating that there seemed to be a public demand for such a reduction at this time. Brogan receives a monthly salary of $140, and Simonson, $150.

L. B. Congdon, who was one of the citizens attending the meeting said of the two officers, "They've been good and faithful men, but can the taxpayers afford to pay them these salaries?"

Street Work Saves Money
Trustee Charles Lux pointed out that Mr. Brogan's work is a sixteen hour job, and that the work of Mr. Simonson and Mr. Brogan do on the streets, has been found in the past, to save the village considerable expense in hiring other labor.

A trustee said he had heard a man on the street state that both men were paid extra for all their street work, and Simonson for reading the water meters. "The people ought to be educated," Lux broke in. "You never hear from the satisfied man until you hear from the kicker," he added. "I was doing a lot of hollering myself until I got on the board."

Decision was finally made to place the matter in the hands of the salary committee, and to act on their recommendation at the next meeting.

President Bartlett expressed himself against a reduction of the vehicle tax, stating that it is the only village tax some residents pay. This matter was also delayed until the continuation of the meeting.

Trustee James Stearns was present for his first board meeting that evening. Mr. Stearns succeeds H. P. Lowry.

Appointments for committees and special officers were as follows:
Finance: E. O. Hawkins, N. E. Sibley, James Stearns.

Water and Sewers: N. E. Sibley, J. B. Drom, H. J. Vos.

Streets and Alleys: E. O. Hawkins, James Stearns, C. N. Lux.

Lighting: H. J. Vos, C. N. Lux, J. B. Drom.

Health Officers: Dr. H. F. Beebe, George Bartlett.

Village Attorney: E. M. Runyard.

Because no name was recommended by the fire department, the fire chief will not be appointed until later.

The bond of Laurel Powles, signed by W. A. Rosing and Charles Powles, was accepted by the board at the meeting.

Albert Nelson Tiffany

The death of Albert Nelson Tiffany, prominent Lake county resident who was well and favorably known throughout the state through his connection with affairs of government, has an even greater significance than the bereavement of those who are members of his family and his friends, for he had served his fellow citizens with wisdom and sincerity from early manhood until Tuesday when it was decreed that the close of a useful life had come.

A pioneer of Antioch, he had given his support and his active co-operation to the development of this community, but his influence extended much further than his immediate surroundings. Locally, he served at one time as a member of the county board of supervisors and was at one time chairman of that body, and he was also member and president of the Antioch Township high school board of education. Some years ago he was elected and served two terms in the state senate. More recently he has held state and federal posts. Shortly before his death he had retired from the state board of pardons and paroles, to which position he had been appointed by former Governor Louis L. Emmerson. Previous to his service on the state parole board, he had been an appointee of the late Calvin Coolidge as collector of internal revenue in this district.

It is undeniable that Albert Tiffany, during his public life, was placed in several offices of public trust, propitious to acquiring great monetary wealth, or of using his well-merited influence for personal aggrandisement. But those who knew Albert Tiffany know why he scorned such a course. Consequently, he acquired no great personal fortune but leaves a more lasting heritage than mere wealth in his accomplishments and his record. Unstinting tribute is due this man for his unsullied record, his interest in the public good and his efforts for public welfare.

Tomorrow, in Antioch, all that is mortal of Albert Nelson Tiffany will be laid to rest, but the memory of his exemplary life will endure.

MORE DEBT—MORE TAXES

In a recent address, Bernard M. Baruch said: "Our basic trouble is debt and taxes—yet we try to cure it by piling on more debt and support it by more taxes." Those are simple words and few, but they go right to the root of our present difficulties.

The post-war expansion of government—national, state and local—may be fairly compared to the expansion in business that took place during the boom. New bureaus were added, new activities were taken on by the thousand, new bureaucrats began feeding at the public trough. It was all necessarily financed by higher taxes and by bond issues, made possible by the inflated prosperity of the time.

The difference between government and business appears in what followed. So far as business is concerned, it met the crash realistically. Prices dropped, incomes dropped, markets shrank. Business wrote itself down accordingly. It didn't make an effort to keep going on an inflated basis in a period of depression. Government has. It is spending more money now than in 1929—it has greater indebtedness—it has yet made little progress in achieving real economy.

The voters, being the stockholders of the government, must see that it is written down, precisely as the stockholders of private concerns wrote them down. We've reached the saturation point in debt and taxes.

We must act. The burden is already too great to bear.

RESULTS OF BEER'S RETURN

Beer has become legal in states comprising about 69,000,000 people. It will become legal at various dates within the next four months in a group of other states. States which are still unfriendly to beer, and are likely to remain so, comprise but about 12,000,000 of our population.

The principal reasons for immediate legalization of beer were the jobs it would provide, the money it would put to work. Indications are, shortly after its appearance, that it is living up to expectations.

First result has been a sharp jump in employment, sizable revenues to the federal, state and local governments, and an increase in spending—not only for beer, but for other articles. Railroads have hired additional crews to man beer trains. Related businesses—such as the manufacture of bottles and mugs—report a sharp pickup. Thousands of men are working at remodeling old breweries and building new.

Reliable figures will be difficult to obtain for some time—until the novelty of "beer is back" has worn off and stabilization of the industry sets in. It seems, however, that it will do much in helping the causes of employment, purchasing power and governmental revenue.

Patten, newly elected chairman of the board of supervisors and why by reason of his office will also serve as chairman of the board of review, voted Democratic last fall. This establishes him as a Democrat, it is declared and means that County Judge Perry L. Persons, who will select the other two members may name two Republicans.

Democrats on the other hand contend that some consideration should be given the fact that Thomas J. Bolger, of McHenry, candidate for reelection as representative, obtained the largest vote. His vote of 51,819 was cumulative, however, each of the straight Democratic ballots, on which his name appeared alone, while three instead of one vote.

The new village board held its first meeting on Saturday evening of last week. At this meeting it was voted that the saloon license should remain the same as during the previous year, $500. President Bock also appointed the following committees:

Orders were also issued for all saloon keepers to have their swinging doors removed and their blinds looped at all times when the place was open. Card games and amusements of all kinds will in the future be prohibited. These orders will go into effect immediately.

Important Appointments In June

Two Members Board of Review to be Named by Judge Persons

County Judge Perry L. Persons will appoint in June, two of the most important public officials in Lake county—MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF (TAX) REVIEW.

The third member is David Van Patten, recently elected chairman of the board of supervisors, who under the statutes automatically becomes chairman of the review board.

The law provides two of the three members shall be members of the political party whose candidate for state (or national) office received the highest number of votes in the county. Chairman Van Patten voted the Democratic ticket last fall. It will thus remain for the appointive power Judge Persons—to decide whether two Republicans or one Republican and one Democrat are to be appointed by him. Already a heated political controversy is on as to the probable decision by Judge Persons.

Judge Persons was seen yesterday on the subject of appointments. Here follows the interview:

The Journal: "Judge Persons, when are the two appointments to be made?"

Answer: "Prior to July 1st—probably in June."

Question: "Has the Republican County Central Committee made a recommendation?"

Answer: "I have had recommendations by various members of the committee." (Note: There are 75 committeemen.)

Question: "Has the Executive Committee of the Republican County Central Committee made any recommendation?"

Answer: "No—only by individual members."

Question: "Has any appointment been promised?"

Answer: "No, I am considering a number of suggestions and applicants. I will try, as I always have, to appoint members of integrity and fairness." (And the Journal representative suggested the advisability of: "Appointing members of ability who know what it is all about.")

Question: "Judge, as Mr. Van Patten voted the Democratic ticket last fall, will you appoint two Republicans or one Democrat and one Republican?"

Answer: "I have not yet decided that question. In doing so, I will give consideration, as usual, to the opinion of the state's attorney, who is legal advisor of the board of review."

Attorney Max Przyborski of North Chicago, chairman of the Republican County Central Committee, was also interviewed on the subject:

Question: "Has the executive committee of the central committee endorsed any candidate or candidates for the review board?"

Answer: "Not exactly. Individually. To a certain extent."

Question: "Will they meet and formerly make endorsements?"

Answer: "Yes, on next Friday and in connection with the consideration of other matters."

The executive committee is composed of Chairman Przyborski (Waukegan), Elmer L. Clavey, (West Deerfield), Ira W. Holdridge, (Waukegan), Ralph R. Phil, (Zion), John J. Spellman, (Shields), Howard L. Scott, (Grant), and John Wirtz, (Fremont).

Circuit Judicial

Election Affected
By Rockford Fight

A big political row between Republicans in Winnebago County promises to affect the coming election circuit judges in this judicial district. The mayoralty election is part of the rum-pus. Blumh running against Mayor Halstrom and another candidate received some 16,000 votes out of 24,000 as Judge Arthur E. Fisher supported the Halstrom ticket, the Blumh organization is now out against Judge Fisher.

The recent campaign for Commissioner of Highways added to the intensity of the situation. As the story goes, McDermott was a firm believer in stone on the highways and the claim is made that the private roads of some of Rockford's strictly first classers were particularly favored by the highway commissioner, among them being Fisher's 20 acre estate.

The March Grand Jury was all set to go into the matter; Judge Fisher, it is reported, appointed as foreman one of the beneficiaries of the kindly, if indiscreet, Highway Commissioner, and the aroused citizens refused to reveal their case. Then a special

Grand jury was impaneled and the Judge is said to have again appointed McDermott, the kindly, if indiscreet, Commissioner, as foreman, and again the citizens pushing the investigation refused to stand hatched and said "nothing doing!" and were more than ever determined to get real action. There the matter stands. With this and the mayoralty election situation, the judicial election in June promises to be the hottest in years.

Another situation to complicate matters involves the candidate for Supreme Court Judge, Judge Oscar E. Heard of Freeport, is a candidate to succeed himself. He was elected in 1924. Another candidate from his own city is in the field and to complicate matters, former County Judge Liddell of Winnebago County, editor of a new newspaper in Rockford, is gaining strength in his candidacy for the same office. The Winnebago bar is by reason of these conditions, some, having "kept books" on political fights, in a turmoil never before experienced.

More Complications

There is still another case to complicate the already complicated situation. A recent murder case in which Fisher's former law partner was attorney and where after conviction the Judge permitted the claimed unusual procedure of allowing bail. It is now rumored the man convicted was not guilty and that others who did the killing were known before the trial was completed. The charges flying back and forth are of a most serious nature.

It does seem that the changing times are permitting freer public expression on banks and judges than ever before.

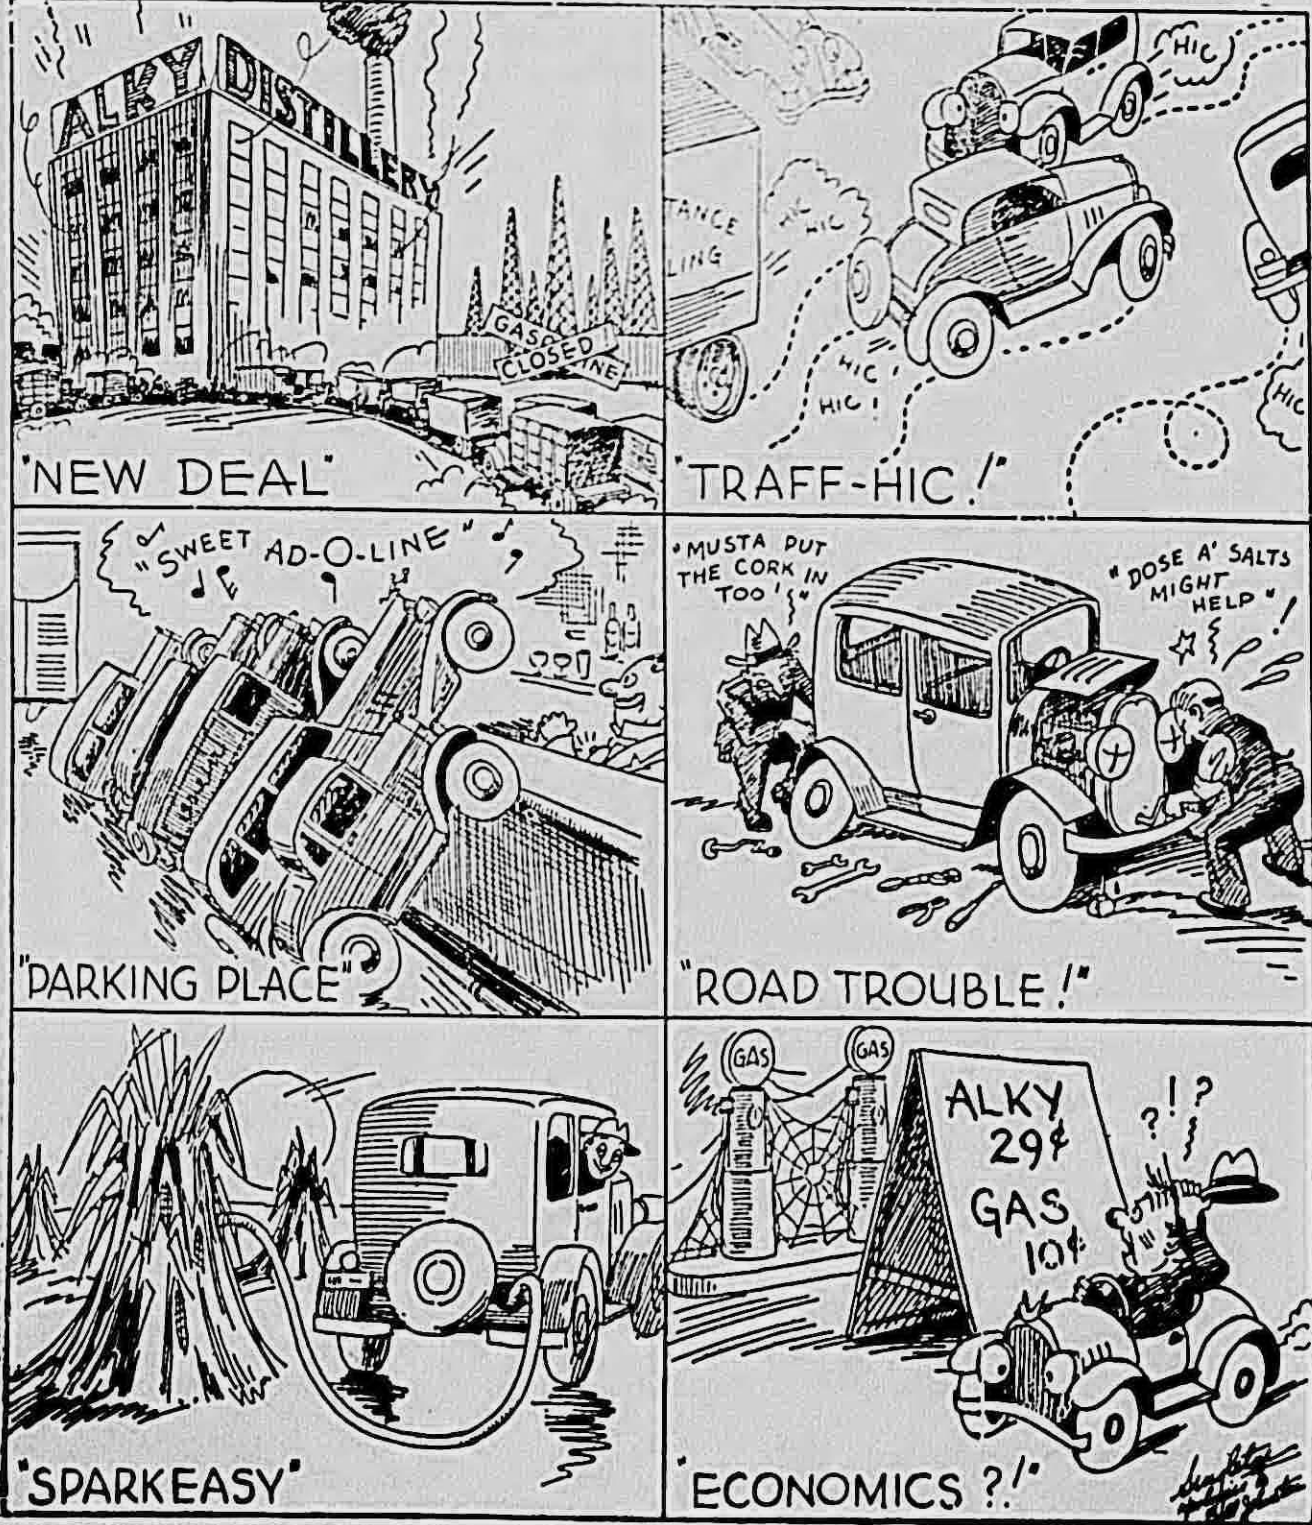

Asks Kerner Decide On Selections For Board of Review

Request that Attorney General Otto Kerner be permitted to decide as to the status of membership of the Lake county board of review this year, has been made to county officials by John O'Keefe, chairman of the Lake County Democratic Central Committee.

Republicans are demanding that that party be represented by two members on the board. They contend that inasmuch that William J. Stratton, Republican nominee for secretary of state received the largest vote polled in Lake county at the general elections in fall the Republican party is entitled to a majority of membership on the board of three. It is pointed out that David Van

Former Gurnee Man at 80 Writes Poem

Replies to Friends Who Sent Congratulations on Birthday

H. D. Hughes, a resident of Gurnee until recently, now making his home at Lynn Haven, Fla., passed his eightieth birthday, April 24. Hundreds of friends wrote Mr. Hughes, congratulating him and wishing him happiness and many more birthdays. In reply he wrote the following poem:

For fourscore years I've lived on God's green earth
And wondered at its beauty and its worth.
For long I've watched the seasons come and go;
The longer lived the less I know I know.
I've lived through winter's cold and summer's heat;
I've found life's living always good and sweet;
I've lain awake in darkness in the night;
I've seen God's mornings come with varying light;
And this I've known, though hardly understood
That God was always, always very GOOD.

He makes the roses bloom both rich and rare;
He makes the wildflowers blossom everywhere;
He makes the kine to feed in pastures green
With tiny orchids growing in between.
He formed the blue skies bending over head;
He makes the sunsets bright and rosy red.
He sets the bow-of-promise in the skies
That we may view with gladness and surprise.
He makes the birds to sing in deepest wood
And they with joy proclaim that God is GOOD.

He makes the wheat to grow to give us bread;
He sees that every living thing is fed;
He taught the bee to build its perfect cell
To store the honey that we love so well;
He made the fish that swim the seven seas,
The mighty whales that travel where they please,
The goldfish with their colors bright and fair,
The tiny minnows darting everywhere;
All these he made to please us—as he would.
The all-wise God is ever, ever GOOD.

He made the walrus and the polar bear
To live where ice and snow is everywhere;
He taught the wildgoose how to wing her way
To that far north where she could brood and lay.
The albatross and penguin are His charge
Where great Antarctic fields of ice loom large.
Down where Commander Byrd flew to the pole,
And safely back again when he had reached his goal.
He thanked his Maker as each mortal should,
For God is God, and He is ever GOOD.

Down in the tropics where He herds the manatee,
The sharks, the octopus, from which all mortals flee;
He makes the hummingbird to loop and swing,
And gathers nectar on the fleetest wing;
He makes the lofty pines that sway in every breeze,
And brings ozone from our surrounding seas;
He makes the ty-ti blooms so rich and sweet;
And gardens grow that we may ever eat.
He makes the berries grow for our food
And we will tell the world that God is GOOD.

In God we live and move and have our life;
He teaches us to not engender strife;
Spared monuments of mercy, every one
Whose hoary head shows life is nearly done.
So good is God He gave His Son to die
To save our souls from hell, both you and I.
Praise ye the Lord, my soul, my heart, my all,
For we are ransomed from the sinner's fall.
We praise His name as ransomed sinners should.
He's able to deliver. God is GOOD.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 30.

The Golden Text was, "Is not destruction to the wicked? and a strange punishment to the workers of iniquity?" (Job 31:3).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man. For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil" (Ecc. 12:13, 14).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through the wholesome chastisements of Love, we are helped onward in the march towards righteousness, peace, and purity, which are the landmarks of Science. . . . The true idea of God gives the true understanding of Life and Love, robs the grave of victory, takes away all sin and the delusion that there are other minds, and destroys mortality" (p. 323).

The High School grounds have been greatly improved in appearance during the past week by the planting of privet hedge and trees along the walks. The shrubs and the work of setting them were donated by the Fox Lake Garden Club. The planting was done under the supervision of Mrs. Kaskila, the club president.

JUNIOR PLAY--

The following night was a less sophisticated, younger Birdie, who had no trouble in winning laughs from her audience.

Ward Willton and Kenneth Hills took the part of the dean of the college. Willton in his make-up was the perfect pedant. Hills, though he looked less the pedagogue, in his actions had all the dignity with which the stage professor is endowed. Aunt Carcyn, admired by the dean, was played with somewhat different interpretations by Bertha Overton and Josephine Sterbenz. Miss Sterbenz was a spirited Aunt Carolyn, while Miss Overton was a clingingly feminine coquette. Clare Hewitt and John Newman also differed in their portrayals. Hewitt presenting a fiery class poet with impassioned address while Newman was a more spiritual bard.

Fathers Were Dignified

Delbert Sherwood and John Descher played the role of Tom's father with firm dignity in both cases. Peaches Carter was played by Jean Van Patten and Thema Cunningham, and both girls were convincing coeds.

The two Asmas, negro washlady, were acted by Louise Smith and Bernice Jensen, both girls fitting into their comedy role well and giving equally good performances. Ruth Hughes and Harold Fenema were the only members of the casts who appeared in both performances.

Miss Hughes appeared the second night in the place of Adelle Miller, who is ill, and Harold in the place of Orville Hawkins, who has the measles. Miss Hughes playing the part of Sylvia, the home town girl, was particularly good, when she tempestuously confronted Tom's father after she had been kidnapped.

Those who helped back stage to make the play a success were: Arthur Griffin, stage manager, and Clarence Gallier, Eileen Phillippi, and Dorothy Schad, assistants; Marjorie Crowley, Helen McVear, Lester Osmond, and Willard Christensen, make-up; Bernice Baumann, make-up; Elizabeth Corrin, prompter; Marvin Van Patten, Ted Rubins, Wilma Schmidt, and Margaret Dibble, publicity; Helen Gallier and Delbert Sherwood, business.

Music between acts was offered by the high school orchestra under the direction of Hans Von Holwede. Miss Cornelia Roberts and H. H. Reichers are class advisers for the juniors.

Fashion Notes
RecipesOf Interest To WOMENHousehold
HintsConsider Tastes of House Guest
When Extending Hospitality

With the approach of the summer season, the house guest becomes a peril which threatens fifty per cent or more of our families. And yet to speak of all guests as a peril, when the term includes those delightful persons whose companionship is always welcome, and who accept the inconveniences of one's home amiably, become rapturous over the view from the guest room, or perhaps the raspberry jam served for breakfast, seems unjustly harsh.

Entertaining house guests should be an experience as enjoyable for the hostess as for the guest, yet that is rarely true. Too often a guest means drudgery, getting out the linen cut-work towels, moving someone out of his room into less comfortable quarters, and nothing more. Which is neither fair to the guest nor to the hostess herself.

With the exception of guests who are seeking a free boarding house (most of whom exist only in our comic strips) guests come for a visit with the express purpose of enjoying themselves. They choose their host and hostess, not because she is a good cook and he drives a very comfortable car, but because they are seeking the companionship of the two.

A successful hostess manages to seem unburdened and yet keep the household running smoothly. For a woman who must do everything herself, this is an almost impossible task. It the guest prolongs her visit longer than the week-end.

Make Room Comfortable

Hostesses should remember that it is the little things which make the visits of their guests pleasant and refreshing. Those little things, start with making the room quite comfortable. Supply it with writing material. If there is any sort of desk in the room, leave some current magazines and books for the guest who finds he cannot sleep at night. If the weather is very warm, a fan is always welcome, as is also a thermos bottle of ice water placed at the side of the bed.

Before the guest's arrival, the room should be given an appearance of welcome. Place a fresh bouquet of garden flowers in the room. By all means, don't neglect supplying those little things like clothes hangers, towels, and a drinking glass.

Elaborate entertainment is seldom necessary to make a guest's visit enjoyable. As much as possible, make the visitor a part of your regular family life. Plan simple things, and allow your guest free time in which to nap, read, or do as he likes.

The man house-guest, is usually taken care of a good share of the time by the host. Entertaining a man for more than a week-end, unless he enjoys entertaining himself, is always a strain. However, you can always offer him golfing, fishing, and swimming. If he cares for any of them, and hope that he'll have sense enough to leave when he gets bored. Some women are as difficult to entertain as a woman on a long visit. As a general rule, however, they are more accustomed to amusing themselves a certain amount of the time and of being around the house.

Entertaining for Guest

The hostess will want to introduce her guest to as many people as possible, and a party is the simplest way. If the guest is a fan, or there are two guests, a husband and his wife, an informal dinner party, followed by bridge, offers an opportunity for conversation and becoming acquainted which is not offered at the evening bridge party.

When the guest is a woman, the simplest way of introducing her to a large number of your friends is at an afternoon tea. If she happens to be a woman who enjoys bridge, you might follow the tea later in the week with a small bridge party.

When you have invited a guest to your home, try to make that guest comfortable enough so that he won't regret his acceptance. Consider his individual tastes and not the way in which you, in his place, would like to be entertained. If the guest is from the city, he undoubtedly will not find a moving picture show the most novel entertainment for a restful visit. Show the city guest as much of the outdoors as possible, but don't bore him by inflicting too much of it on him.

If he usually eats his meals in a restaurant, try to give him food which he won't find at restaurant menus. Try to please him, but don't try so hard that you have no time to visit with him. And if he's the kind who finds nothing satisfactory, strike him off your list of persons who receive second invitations. But the chances are, if you have done your part, he will leave with a pleasant memory.

Ready, Simplifies
Picnic Planning

Now when the air is mild, but not oppressively warm, when hordes of mosquitoes are not lurking in every hollow ready to torture human invaders, when we are still charmed with the novelty of being out of doors, of seeing the trees bud and the grass become green, is the time when picnics, as a rule are most successful.

Picnics as a recreation are inexpensive healthful and entirely satisfying if they are well planned. A well planned picnic is not one which shoves extra burdens on the shoulders of the housewife and leaves her family nothing to do but gorge themselves on the food which has been brought.

The family which makes a hobby of picnics will find it convenient to have picnic equipment always on hand. Any good sized basket, or box to which a handle has been added will serve admirably as a picnic hamper. Inexpensive forks and knives and spoons (or those which have been discarded for daily use) porcelain or paper plates and cups, a small can containing sugar, pepper and salt shakers which are filled, something to serve as a tablecloth, and a supply of old papers will make the basket as convenient as a packed hamper, and it will save the bother of collecting and packing these things before the picnic, and make "spur of the moment" picnics, which are always the best because you are in exactly the right mood for them, a simple matter.

Open Fire Cooking

Except in very hot weather, a picnic meal which is partly cooked over an outdoor fire, is more appetizing than that which is brought carefully packed in the basket all ready to be eaten. There are innumerable suggestions for out of door cooking, with meat as the basis of most of these dishes.

Steak, broiled or fried over an open fire is always good. Round steak, which is first pounded and rolled around onions and butter, can be roasted on a stick. The cooking is more interesting when everyone can take part as they can in roasting this type of steak, wieners, bacon, ears of corn, and marshmallows.

Bacon and eggs and ham and eggs are attractive out of doors dishes, and they have the advantage of comprising practically the whole meal. Picnic Goulash has this advantage, added to the fact that where this constitutes the picnic, the food can be bought at a store on the way out of town, and requires no packing and preparation.

A good sized frying pan is necessary for the goulash. In the pan fry six or seven slices of bacon and a quarter pound of hamburger; when the meats are nearly cooked through, add a can of corn, a can of tomatoes, two or three eggs and mix all well together. The resulting dish will be welcomed by appetites sharpened by several hours of doors.

A gallon thermos jug is a happy convenience for keeping food hot or cold. Macaroni, stew and other concoctions may be taken to the picnic in one of these jugs.

Roasted potatoes, apples and corn on the cob are easily prepared in the campfire. The potatoes and apples are placed in ashes at the outer edge of the fire for roasting. Corn may be roasted in the same way, after removing only a few of the outer leaves of the husks.

Sandwiches and salads are old friends of the picnic meal, as are also cakes and cookies. Don't take the same salads and sandwiches on every picnic—make the meals as varied as possible, and let everyone who is going have a hand in the plans.

TEA MENUS

Mark Twain said, "Afternoon tea is an affront to luncheon, and an insult to dinner" but Mark Twain was a man, and therefore could never have experienced the pleasure of dropping in on one's hostess at a vague time somewhere between the hours of two and four, chatting with a dozen or more friends one hasn't seen for a week, sampling dainty platters of cakes and sandwiches, and then leaving before the affair has become boring. Teas are the only truly informal gatherings which have any elegance or dignity.

The tea menu depends on its daintiness for success. At a large tea, the table, lighted by candles, presided over by a charming woman, is set with decorative foods, carefully arranged on attractive platters. The

SUNDAY DINNER
SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT issued a proclamation designating May 1st as Child Health Day. He called upon "all agencies, public and private, and all individuals having the interest of children at heart . . . to inaugurate constructive activities to protect and promote the health and physical vigor of the youth of our nation."

Although May 1st is officially Child Health Day, the health of growing youngsters is an everyday problem and I can think of no better way to protect and promote good health than by the proper use of nourishing foods. The three Sunday dinner menus for the week suggested by The Quaker Maid Kitchen are planned to include food suitable for children, yet they are equally attractive and desirable for grown-ups.

This week the family shopper will find a good variety of fresh fruits and vegetables to choose from. Oranges, grapefruit, and strawberries. New potatoes, asparagus, and peas are very much in evidence. Beef, pork, and lamb and veal are very good meat values. This is an excellent season to serve veal. Two wholesome foods which always please the youngsters are preserves, and peanut butter.

guest receives her tea, on a plate with her napkin. She may pass then along the table and choose her own foods.

At a very large tea, a number of young girls may be asked to help serve. These girls will wear dainty gowns, in summer, perhaps bouffant organdies. As the guests enter the room in which they are to be served, the girls serving inquire as to whether they will have tea, procure a cup and plate and napkin from one of the women pouring, take it to the guest and then pass her plates of each of the foods on the table. At a very small tea, also, the tea may be served to seated guests.

Three types of menus are suggested below:

Toasted English Muffins
Orange Marmalade
Olives wrapped in Bacon
Tea with Lemon or Cream

Open Sandwiches Stuffed Celery
Ripe Olives
Frosted Cakes
Nuts Candies
Tea and Coffee

Tea Cookies Assorted Cakes
Dates Stuffed with Cheese
Salted Nuts
Tea Coffee

The recipe for the English muffins is as follows:
3 tablespoons salted butter
1 quart flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1/2 yeast cake
1 teaspoon sugar
2 1/4 cups warm milk
Dissolve yeast in 1/4 cup of milk, then add, with rest of the milk, to dry ingredients. Beat mixture well. Add beaten egg and melted butter. Beat again 10 minutes. Cover, let stand in warm place to rise. When mixture is light have a hot griddle on which there are well greased muffin rings. Fill each ring half full, cook until brown on one side. Turn over and brown on other side. Makes twelve muffins. When done, slice in two and toast.

For the olives wrapped in bacon, fry the strips of bacon very crisp, then while still warm wrap around olive and secure with a toothpick. Chill before serving.

Make the open sandwich on both whole wheat and white bread, cutting away the crusts and shaping the sandwiches in dainty circles and triangles. Some excellent spreads for open sandwiches are: Cream cheese mixed with apricot marmalade, cheese with a slice of stuffed olive in the center, shrimp mixed with mayonnaise, finely ground boiled eggs mixed with mayonnaise.

Tea cookies may be made from any cookie dough which rolls very thin. Cut them in a variety of shapes, about the size of a quarter.

A Crooner In the Kitchen

Bing Crosby treats an admiring audience of one to a sample of his two great accomplishments—crooning and cooking. The audience is his young wife, the former Dixie Lee of the motion pictures.

By Mabel Love

HAVE you a crooner in your kitchen? Bing Crosby's family has, a good part of the time. When the famous Bing is at home—the same Bing whose love songs have charmed countless thousands—he likes nothing better than to slip into the kitchen and dash off a culinary masterpiece to prove he is just as good a cook as he is a crooner.

Bing modestly says that his reputation as a cook is due to his habit of picking up good ideas wherever he runs across them. He collects recipes the way a lot of people collect souvenirs. "For instance," he says, "did you know that a lot of different kinds of specially good cakes, cookies and candies can be made by using the crisp, ready-to-eat cereals as one of the ingredients? Well, that's one of the ideas I picked up, and I use it right along."

Corn Flake Macaroons
Beat the whites of two eggs until they are stiff enough to hold their shape but not until they lose their shiny appearance. Fold in one cup of sugar. Fold in two cups corn flakes, one-half cup nuts, one cup coconut. Add one-half teaspoon vanilla. Drop on a well greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) fifteen to twenty minutes. Remove pans from oven, place on damp towel, and remove macaroons immediately with a spatula or sharp knife. Bing also says that crushed corn flakes, with their crisp, nut-like flavor, are fine for breadings, chops, fish and vegetables such as egg plant.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

FOODS should always be covered in the refrigerator to prevent the mingling of odors and to keep vegetables and fruit moist. Gleaning transparent cellophane bags are now made especially for the purpose. They are grease-proof, moisture-proof and odor-proof, and permit the most varied foods, such as meats, cheese, and onions, to lie side by side without contaminating each other.

Earl Larimore Takes Lead in Pages of Romance

THE Sunday afternoon theater of the air reaches a new high level in radio entertainment, according to Donald D. Stauffer, producer of "The March of Time" and now directing the "Pages of Romance" dramatization, by the selection of feature players from the most distinguished theatrical organization in the country—The New York Theater Guild.

Earl Larimore, the second Guild player to be presented by "Pages of Romance," will be heard in the dramatization of "Radio Sweetheart" on Sunday, May 7, at 5:30 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time over the WJNB network.

Larimore's Broadway fame is marked by such Guild productions as Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," "Marco Millions," "Hotel Universe" and "Mourning Becomes Electra." At present he plays the male lead in "Biography." He was featured in the movie productions, "The Kick Off" and "Inspiration."
